

Final Vote on P.O. Reform Due Today

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House's vote today on the postal reform bill is expected to clear the way for the most sweeping overhaul of the U.S. mails since Congress took control in 1975.

Most observers expected the bill to sail through the House and go to President Nixon.

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, who objects to elimination of Congress' prerogative to veto mail rate increases, said backers want to "get that bill through as quickly as possible." He predicted little debate before the roll is called.

Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Blount has criticized the measure on grounds it does not go far enough for efficient management. He said he was ready to propose more changes by future Congresses.

Blount complained the procedure for boosting mail rates to cover operating costs is too cumbersome. He said he doesn't have freedom to shop around for the cheapest air transportation contracts and that Congress will continue to subsidize the mails through 1984.

The bill ends Congress' 181-year control over mail rates, employees' pay and appointment of the local postmaster.

It turns the $7-billion, 32,000-post office mail system over to an independent, corporate-like agency run by 11 governors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

The postal service will negotiate pay and working conditions with postal unions. It also is authorized to sell up to $10 billion in bonds for modernization and can set long-term, continuing management policies without worrying whether Congress will not appropriate funds.

Day to day operations will be under the direction of a postmaster general who is a permanent manager, not a Cabinet member subject to replacement with a change of administrations.

The measure also sets up a five-man rate commission independent of the postal service, which would hold public hearings on requests for increases and decide whether to approve them.

But the governors could override a rate commission decision, and set temporary rate boosts on their own if the commission does not act within 90 days of a request.

In addition, the measure gives postal employees an 8 per cent pay raise retroactive to April 18. And it accelerates steps to top pay in eight years instead of the present 21.

The bill continues 10 per cent subsidies totaling about $800 a year million, largely to pay for rural service, through 1979. The subsidies drop to 5 per cent by 1984 when a decision is to be made whether to discontinue them and put the mails on a self-paying basis.

The new postal service will have a year to get into operation but can go to work on a rate increase immediately.

It is expected to boost the 6-cent stamp to 8 cents by next spring or summer—a proposal by President Nixon that was never introduced in Congress.

Young Robt. Kennedy in Drug Case

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III are among a growing list of sons and daughters of persons prominent in government and politics who have been named in cases involving marijuana or other drugs. Among them are:

John P. Cahill, 19, son of New Jersey Gov. William T. Cahill, was arrested twice on marijuana charges this year and ordered to undergo psychiatric tests prior to disposition of the case.

Michael M. Hollings, 19, son of Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., was arrested last May on the New Jersey Turnpike. He pleaded guilty to marijuana charges and received a six-month suspended sentence.

Howard Mansueti Jr., 17, son of a former head of the Small Business Administration, was charged on drug charges last month in Greenwich Village. The charges were dropped after the recommendation of the judge's court-appointed

Computerized Clerk Now in Food Stores

By DON KENDALL

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new computerized "grocery clerk" developed to eliminate many chores in retail food stores could mean savings to consumers and shorter lines at check-out stands, the Agriculture Department announced today.

The system, a prototype, five years in development, was scheduled for unveiling today at the USDA's facility in nearby Hyattsville, Md. Among those expected to attend was Virginia Knauer, White House consumer advisor.

Several pieces of electronic equipment are involved, including a tabulator, memory bank, teletype and scanner. Here's what they do:

When an item is taken to the store's checkout counter, the scanner reads a built-in code and shows the item's price immediately on a lighted bar above the tabulator.

After the customer's order is completely checked he receives an itemized purchase list by name as well as the per unit and per package prices. At the bottom of the customer's tape, the total cost on the order, taxes and the number of trading stamps due, if any, are shown.

The system, according to officials, simultaneously maintains an inventory of store's shelves. "This facility promises to hold down retail cost, with savings passed on to the consumer," department officials said.

Wage Hike Could Bring Depression

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers says, "Constantly escalating wage increases could bring on a major recession or even a depression in this country."

Woodcock expressed his views to newsmen Tuesday as negotiators worked on contracts for nearly 800,000 UAW workers in the auto and farm implement industries.

He added that "moderation" in UAW wage demands would satisfy workers only if "we are fully protected against the increase of cost-of-living increases."

U.S. Bombers Pound Asian Supply Lines

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air armada kept up heavy raids in Laos and Cambodia today to block the return of enemy base camps to the border areas and to help the Cambodians in their fight against a six-day-old Communist offensive.

Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers from Thailand and South Vietnam and Navy fighter-bombers from carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin hit targets in Laos and Cambodia, while some 40 B52 bombers from Thailand, Guam and Okinawa dropped about 1,200 tons of explosives along 800 miles of South Vietnam's border with Laos and Cambodia. A top commander of U.S. troops who went into Cambodia in May and June, Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison, said his command had no evidence that the North Vietnamese had re-established any of the base camps which Davison's forces broke up in the Fishhook region north of Saigon.

The American war planes are doing what they can to keep the camps from being re-established, both by attacks on the border areas and on the Ho Chi Minh supply trail running south through Laos.

There was no word on American air operations today in support of Cambodian ground forces, but the Cambodian military spokesman in Phnom Penh reported that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong still held Skoun, an important road junction 40 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and there was fighting there this morning.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler observed U.S. air strikes near Skoun Wednesday in support of Cambodian ground troops fighting a large enemy force. Wheeler reported that one Cambodian battalion had fought its way to the town, but three other battalions were blocked by Viet Cong forces to the northwest and northeast.

The U.S. Command in Saigon announced that 78 Americans were killed in combat last week, one more than the week before, and 659 were wounded, compared with 510 the week before. It was the fifth straight week that fewer than 80 Americans were killed.

South Vietnamese headquarters also reported a drop in the number of government troops killed in action, 280 last week compared with 325 the week before. Enemy casualties reported by the allied commands dropped 33 per cent, from 1,915 in the week of July 18-25 to 1,278 last week.

A U.S. spokesman said American combat deaths for the five weeks of June 28-Aug. 1 totaled 354, the lowest for a five-week period in 4½ years.

The weekly summary brought reported American casualty totals for the war to 43,212 killed and 285,483 wounded.

Ibsen to Address Cattlemen

The Hempstead County Cattlemen's Association will meet at the Diamond Cafe Tuesday night, Aug. 11, at 8 o'clock, according to C.L. Roberts, president.

Dr. David Ibsen, extension veterinarian from Little Rock, will be the guest speaker. He will present a "Herd Health Program" with emphasis on vaccination and internal parasite control.

All cattlemen of the county and area are invited to hear Dr. Ibsen discuss this vital subject, Mr. Roberts said.

Will Name Turncoat Democrats

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bill Nelson of Rogers, a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said Wednesday that he would announce within the next few days the names of several "prominent" members of the Democratic party that were campaigning for Republicans.

Nelson said at a Little Rock news conference that Warren Bass of Little Rock should be removed as auditor of the state Democratic party. Nelson alleged that Bass was one of the Democrats who was working for the Republican party.

Reached at his office after Nelson's news conference Bass said he was not employed as the party's auditor, that he had audited the party's books only once—in 1968.

"It was a one-shot thing," Bass said, adding that Nelson was "misinformed."

Nelson said Bass should resign due to a charge made by the Rev. R. J. Hampton, a Republican candidate for governor, that Bass and several others were involved in a project financed by Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to register Negro voters.

Bass said he was not part of the drive.

Unsure About New Hemlines? Buy Pants

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're doubtful about skirt lengths—buy pants. At least that's the theory of early fall shoppers.

Pants suits are the hottest selling fall item so far, according to many retailers across the country.

Customers aren't clamoring for the midcalf skirt or asking for the short mini. If anything, they're accepting hemlines at or just below the knee. But women have not gone strongly for any one length. Instead, they're buying pants combinations, sometimes with midi coats.

As a Boston retailer says, "For what sales there are, pants are most interesting to our customers."

With a few exceptions, this is the message from Atlanta, Chicago, Dayton, Dallas, Los Angeles and New York City.

Fall merchandise is pouring into stores now.

Retailers look to August and September for a clearer direction on hemlines. The longer-than-midcalf skirts at the recent Paris shows are expected to give impetus to the long look here. Retailers point to the trend of customer buying closer to time of need as a delay factor. Finally, many spokesmen explain that women remain confused and undecided.

Some retailers are dubious about customer acceptance of midis and are unhappy about sales to date.

Other retailers take their booming pants sales in stride.

States Must Take Steps for 18 Vote

By MARK BROWN

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In an attempt to cover all bases, the Justice Department is expected to file dual suits against 27 states that have not taken steps to give 18-year-olds the vote.

The suits, designed to enforce the new federal Voting Rights Act and force a swift test of its constitutionality, are expected within a few days. The department is expected to sue in both the Supreme Court and the lower courts.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who is pledged to defend the lower minimum voting age despite misgivings, has said he would take to court any state that did not provide written assurance of compliance by Aug. 3.

The Department announced Wednesday 21 states had given positive responses by the deadline while five responded with unequivocal "no's." Twelve other states equivocated while 10 did not respond at all.

Only two states—Georgia and Kentucky—now let 18-year-olds vote.

Other provisions of the new act that federal officials hope to enforce through the suits include a ban on literacy and good-character tests at the polls. Of 14 states with such tests, eight have told Mitchell they will comply.

A third provision establishes a uniform 30-day residency requirement for voting in presidential elections. The department said 21 states have agreed to conform to this provision.

The ban on poll tests poses the most immediate problem for federal and state officials. Taking effect when President Nixon signed the law June 22, the provision was ignored in at least one summer primary election.

The lowered voting age minimum not takes effect Jan. 1, 1971. Mitchell, however, has said the states must establish procedures for registering younger voters if the Supreme Court upholds the law. This must be accomplished before the end of the year, he said.

Much of Poverty-Aid Cash Diverted to Research, Solon Says

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Edith Green has charged billions of tax dollars intended for school children and the poor are being diverted to private research companies more interested in profits than results.

Much of the money goes to private $100-a-day consultants—including many former federal officials—who make studies which few people read and fewer heed, says the Oregon Democrat.

In the last five years, Mrs. Green told a news briefing Wednesday, the industrial-education-poverty complex has become a major growth industry.

"Our most enduring monument to poverty has been the creation of a 'poverty' industry" which, Mrs. Green said, works against the abolition of poverty. If poverty were eliminated, she reasoned, so would be the lucrative jobs of experts studying it.

Mrs. Green, No. 2 Democrat on the House Education and Labor Committee, said she is investigating the practice of hiring consultants from the ranks of former high-level officials of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Office of Education.

"Contracts have been given with outrageous conflict of interest," she declared, comparing the education-poverty consulting field with defense industries which hire retired military officers for ranking positions.

And she ranked the threat of the industrial-education-poverty complex with that of the military-industrial complex which the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower warned of as he left office.

"With the tremendous task ahead in solving poverty, billions are being siphoned off to profit-making companies—and I question the results," she said.

She suggested universities and non-profit educational institutes could do much of the research now farmed out by OEO and the Office of Education to private consultants.

Mrs. Green said her investigation shows the federal agencies often don't know how many contracts they have out, to whom they are assigned, what the subjects are, or whether they duplicate others.

Of the OEO budget of $7.5 billion, $500,000 goes for such services as evaluations, studies and reports, Mrs. Green asserted.

Jim Caldwell to Speak to GOP Women

Sen. Jim Caldwell of Benton county will be in Hope Saturday at the Town and Country to make a witty and interesting speech. The public is invited to come at 6 p.m. to visit with friends and to have dinner.

The Loving Sisters, a singing group from Little Rock, will appear at 6:30 p.m. Those who are unable to attend the Dutch Treat dinner are invited to come to hear Sen. Caldwell at 7 p.m.

The evening is being sponsored by the Hempstead County Republican Women and should be fun.

Says Carroll Co. Jobless Substantial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department says that Carroll County, Ark., is one of 27 small labor market areas having "substantial" unemployment.

The designation is based on a recent jobless rate of 6 per cent or more and the expectation that it will remain that high for at least two more months.

"Substantial" unemployment areas receive first preference for grants and loans for public works under Title I of the Public Works and Economic Development Act and for bidding on government contracts under the Defense Manpower Policy Number Four.

Carroll County had an unemployment rate of 5.8 per cent last year. Recent figures show a rate of 8.1 per cent for April, 7.5 per cent in May and 6.9 per cent in June.

Guard Takes Over Lima, O., Quells Riot

By PERRY SMITH

Associated Press Writer
LIMA, Ohio (AP) — National Guardsmen helped maintain order in this industrial city today after racial violence followed the fatal shooting of a Negro woman by police, who say she grabbed an officer's gun and fired at them.

Two law enforcement officers were among four persons wounded by gunfire during Wednesday's disorders.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 350 Guardsmen into the city to help Lima's 80-man police force maintain order at the request of Mayor Christian Morris. A declaration of a state of emergency and a curfew had failed to halt violence. Sheriff's deputies from four counties were also sent in.

Roving crowds threw rocks and bombs, broke windows and sparked other vandalism.

Police raided a Black Panther party headquarters but found it empty.

The shooting of Christine Rick Wednesday afternoon touched off the violence in this north-west Ohio city of 53,000.

The incident occurred while policemen Glen Pierce and Ted Boop, responding to a disturbance call, were arresting a 17-year-old boy on the near south side. The arrest reportedly involved a stolen bicycle.

Police said the woman grabbed Pierce's pistol from his holster and fired at the officers. They took cover and police said Boop used his service pistol to return the fire while Pierce pulled a .38-caliber pistol from his pocket, not a service weapon, and fired. The woman was killed.

A crowd gathered at the scene and the police called for assistance.

Pierce was treated for a gunshot wound to the right ear which police said he suffered in the exchange with Miss Rick. Boop suffered a broken nose in a scuffle with the woman and the boy, who was not identified.

Sheriff's Deputy Charles Martin was wounded when, police said, snipers fired at law officers riding in three cars.

Wife Learns to Like Politics

By DALA MCKINSEY

Associated Press Writer
WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. William S. Cheek says if her husband were elected governor she would enjoy living in Little Rock.

"I have always had a desire to live in Little Rock," she said. "I am a Tennessee hill-billy and I love the hills around Little Rock."

Cheek is running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He has also run for mayor of West Memphis and sheriff of Crittenden County, but was unsuccessful at both attempts.

Mrs. Cheek, 47, says she did not like politics at first, but she is beginning to like it better than before.

"I like politicians more and respect them more than I did," Mrs. Cheek said.

She says that she helps her husband in every way that she can, in the campaign, including answering the telephone and mailing chores.

Mrs. Cheek said their two daughters accompanied them on a "flying" trip of five July 4th picnics around the state. She says she enjoys such outings because she likes to meet the people.

The Cheeks also have a married son, Michael, 24, who is studying law at the University of Mississippi.

Their oldest daughter Bernice, 19, attended the University of Arkansas and then graduated from modeling school. However, Mrs. Cheek said she thinks Bernice is too young to start on the modeling circuit in the larger towns, so she helps her mother in Mrs. Cheek's Merle Norman Studio.

Days for Mrs. Cheek begin at 6 a.m. and run until midnight due to her business interests. She runs West Memphis' only Merle Norman studio and keeps the books for the Cheek's two

She also runs the Cheek home with help from Bernice and Billie, 13.

Before Cheek entered the campaign, she had plans to open a Merle Norman studio in Forrest City, which she says she will do even if he is elected governor.

Mrs. Cheek said she was not surprised that Cheek entered the gubernatorial race, "because he likes politics and people."

Even though she mentioned voting age, busing and the parole system as the primary concerns in this year's election, she declined to give her opinions.

"My husband is the candidate, I agree with him," she said.

With Cheek's campaign and Mrs. Cheek's business interests, the lone family time of the week is Sunday morning breakfast before church.

Mrs. Cheek says she fixes a big breakfast every Sunday morning because it is probably the only meal the family will eat together at home the entire week. After church, they all go to lunch at one of the Cheek's two smorgasbord-type restaurants.

Out of 10 steady employers, five of the men are problems. They flirt so much I'm fed up. They try to kiss me, or pat me as I go by. One guy took me out on a country road "to show me the view." At midnight? I reminded him his wife and my parents would be waiting.

I don't do anything to encourage them. I hardly even talk to them. Outside of quitting my job, which I can't afford, what can I do? — DISGUSTED

I want to go to college, but my father says I am too stupid. I got As and Bs in school. I want to get a job and leave, but when I can't even get downtown, it's hard. If I say anything, they call me names you wouldn't believe. Help! — OHIO GIRL

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dennis Weaver thinks—perhaps "hopes" is a safer word—that the character Sam McCloud is the man he has been looking for since he quit "Gunsmoke" 10 years ago.

Weaver became a household face playing Chester Good, Marshal Dillon's deputy with a stiff leg and impenetrable naivete. The character entered the lexicon as a synonym for "sidekick," and there were endless jokes and references. Chester, as a matter of fact, was played so convincingly by Weaver that one of his big problems was to persuade the public that he really had two perfectly useful legs.

Now Weaver is back—in NBC's "McCloud"—again playing a deputy marshal. But this time he is a contemporary cop, solving crimes in New York City on assignment from his New Mexico base.

Between the two TV deputy marshals, Weaver has sandwiched in a couple of TV series. In one he played a horse breeder with an oriental orphan as co-star. "Kentucky Jones" barely scraped through one season. Three years ago he returned as the father, a game warden, in "Gentle Ben," which survived for 2½ seasons.

"I do think 'McCloud' may be the right one," Weaver said in the soft accent of his native Missouri. "It is the first series in which I am the essential character. In 'Kentucky Jones,' there were the horses and the children. In 'Gentle Ben' there was the boy and the bear—they could have replaced the father anytime. But without 'McCloud' there isn't any series."

"The series lives or dies on the way the character is accepted," he said.

The new series spun off one of NBC's "World Premiere" features, and introduced Weaver as a calm, mustached and perceptive police officer from the wide open spaces—10-gallon hat and ranch-type clothes—solving a big-city murder. It worked so well, NBC chose to use it for the first six-episode series in "Four-in-One," an experiment: four different series in succession, each of limited duration.

"Who knows?" shrugged Weaver. "If it works, it can be turned into a full season's series next year."

Although Weaver's television activity between Chester and Sam has not exactly electrified the audience he has been kept busy with films and guest appearances. No actor whose hobby is the breeding and racing of thoroughbred horses is exactly a candidate for unemployment insurance.

"When 'Gentle Ben' was canceled last January, I went right off to Spain to make a film," he said. "I keep busy."

Off camera, Weaver is a quiet, friendly gentle-voiced man, devoid of flashy actorish qualities. He is married, has three sons, the oldest, 22, and recently built a new Spanish-style house, much of it with his own hands.

Kapp Told to Take It or Leave It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While the Minnesota Vikings were telling Joe Kapp to take it or leave it, most National Football League clubs were shedding players and a few were picking them up.

Kapp, who played out his option last year as he led the Vikings to the NFL championship, is reportedly demanding a four-year, million-dollar contract and a $250,000 bonus. His whereabouts have not been known for nearly two weeks.

On Wednesday, though, the Vikes sent a telegram to Kapp's attorney, John Elliott Cook, saying further meetings to discuss contract terms "would serve no real purpose" and that Kapp should either accept their previous offer and report to training camp immediately or look for work elsewhere.

"We are prepared to play the 1970 season without Kapp," General Manager Jim Finks said. "We won't give in to demands that are totally out of line with the principles we have used in the past to sign Vikings players."

Nine-year cornerback Herb Adderly of the Green Bay Packers and five-year middle line-backer Al Atkinson of the New York Jets retired.

Adderly gave no reason for his action but Atkinson said players such as controversial Jets quarterback Joe Namath and the recent players' strike were major factors in his decision.

The Chicago Bears signed wide receiver George Farmer of UCLA, their No. 1 draft choice, after a brief salary dispute.

The Cincinnati Bengals' first pick, tackle Mike Reid, of Penn State, strained his right knee and was hospitalized. He will miss the Bengals' exhibition opener Saturday night against Washington.

The Redskins released 10-year defensive tackle Joe Rutgens and five youngsters and announced they will start a veteran offensive unit headed by quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

The New York Giants acquired veteran linebacker Matt Hazeltine from San Francisco, reportedly for cash, and announced that Dennis Byrd, who had been signed as a free agent, packed his bag and left camp.

Kansas City linebacker Bobby Bell, who suffered a back injury in the College All-Star game, will miss three or four exhibition games, Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said.

Baltimore placed three rookies on waivers and said Johnny Unitas would quarterback the Colts Saturday night against Oakland.

The Raiders said Daryle Lamonica will start at quarterback but that former Alabama star Ken Stabler will probably see more action.

New Orleans released wide receiver Scott Arnold and picked up Clanton King, an offensive tackle from Purdue, released by Kansas City and awarded to the Saints by waiver.

The Boston Patriots cut two rookies and said another one, wide receiver Skip Orzulak, suffered a shoulder separation and would be sidelined three to five weeks.

San Francisco signed Southern Cal tackle Gary McArthur, the 49ers' No. 5 draft choice, and announced the departure of defensive tackle Steve Van Sinderen from Washington State.

The Cleveland Browns said they dropped two rookies and lost defensive back Rick Stevenson of Arizona to two years of military service.

Miami released four players, center Joe Minto left the Dolphins' camp voluntarily and, after a tough workout, guard Larry Little collapsed from heat exhaustion but was reported in good condition.

Denver dropped a pair of free agent rookies and sent second-year player Frank Quayle home to recuperate from a pulled leg muscle but kept Quayle on the roster.

San Antonio announced the return of 19-year-old guard Ken Hasty, the last of the Cardinals who played for the team in Chi-

Ashe Has Chance in Pro Tourney

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Arthur Ashe seems to be putting his game together just at the right time, and the onetime king of American amateur tennis hopes it just might carry him to the top in his first crack at the U.S. pro championship.

"I figure my chances are pretty good," the Davis Cup star from Gum Spring, Va., said Wednesday after advancing to the quarterfinals with a 6-3, 6-4 second round victory over Ismail El Shafei of the United Arab Republic.

It was the second consecutive triumph in straight sets for Ashe, but he figures to have a bit more trouble in his quarter-final test against Tony Roche, who also advanced Wednesday by defeating his fellow Australian Fred Stolle, 7-6, 6-7, 6-1.

Roche, who is seeded fourth in this tournament compared to Ashe's No. 8 seeding, defeated the American in their last meeting and holds a over-all edge against him. But in the current $50,000 tourney at Longwood, with its use of the relatively new sudden death tiebreaking system, anything can happen in a given match.

Roche and Stolle gave a good demonstration of that in their duel Wednesday night, taking turns winning via tiebreakers before Roche turned it on to take the last set easily.

Ashe had less trouble with El Shafei, breaking him at love in the eighth game of their first set and the holding his service in the ninth game to close it out.

The American also broke in the first and third games of the second set for an apparent runaway, but the two-handed hitting Arab came back to make a battle of it for a while, breaking in the sixth game and carrying Ashe to duce on his serve in both the eighth and 10th games before finally succumbing.

Australia's unseeded Ray Ruffels pulled the biggest upset of the third day of the week-long tournament, ousting fifth-seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, while another Aussie, sixth-seeded Roy Emerson, breezed past Mark Cox of England, 6-1, 6-2.

Ashe, Roche, Emerson and Ruffels thus are in the quarterfinals, with the other four places being decided today. Rod Laver of Australia, seeking a fifth consecutive championship here, meets Ray Moore of South Africa; Clark Graebner of New York City, upset winner over top-seeded John Newcombe in their first round match, plays Jaime Fillol of Chile; third-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia meets Cliff Drysdale of South Africa; and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., plays Jan Kodeš of Czechoslovakia.

cago before 1960, after the club determined his knees, operated on in recent years, might not withstand another season.

Pittsburgh chopped 11 rookies and injury-prone veteran receiver Lawrence Elkins from the Steelers' roster.

Buffalo's six-year veteran tight end Charley Ferguson announced his retirement and the Bills waived cornerback Hilton Crawford.

Veteran cornerback Willie Daniel was cut by the Los Angeles Rams. A spokesman for the Rams said a physical showed Daniel's knee had not responded well to off-season surgery.

Ray Oyler Mini-hero in 7-5 Win

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Somewhere in baseball-barren Seattle, a small group of die-hard fans surely are cheering again for Ray Oyler after he gave California fans something to cheer about for the first time.

The light-hitting shortstop, who left Seattle before the baseball team did finally made some fans in Anaheim as the mini-hero in the Angels' 7-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins in Minneapolis Wednesday night.

Jim Spencer was the big hero with two two-run homers, including the game winner in the eighth inning, as the Angels remained tied for second place and pulled within seven games of the leading Twins in the American League West.

But it was Oyler, a fifth-inning replacement for All-Star shortstop Jim Fregosi, who did the unexpected—he got a base hit—setting off the winning three-run explosion in the eighth, and then he squeezed home an insurance run in the ninth.

Oakland, tied with the Angels, kept pace with a 4-1 victory over Kansas City, while elsewhere, Baltimore slapped down Boston 3-0, Detroit tripped Washington 3-1, the New York Yankees dropped Cleveland 7-3 and the Chicago White Sox bombed Milwaukee 9-3.

In the National League, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 4-0, the New York Mets downed St. Louis 5-3, San Francisco dumped Cincinnati 5-3, Los Angeles crushed Atlanta 12-2, Montreal upended the Chicago Cubs 6-2 before losing 11-3 in a two-night doubleheader and Houston edged San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Angels, despite Spencer's two-run homer in the sixth inning, entered the eighth trailing 5-3. It was here that they must have really felt the pain in Fregosi's back, which he injured the night before and forced him out of this game.

Instead of Fregosi leading off the eighth, it was Oyler, who oddly had a rabid fan club in Seattle last season despite his .176 career batting average. After being traded first to Oakland and then sold to the Angels, he hadn't made much of a hit in Anaheim without a hit in nine times at bat.

But, lo and behold, Oyler made a big hit here—a single past third and the Angels were rolling. After a walk, ace reliever Ron Perranoski came in and got Billy Cowan to hit into a doubleplay, but Tommie Reynolds beat out a roller, scoring Oyler, and Spencer followed with a 10th homer.

Refusing to rest on his laurels in the ninth, Oyler squeezed in Sandy Alomar with another run.

Oakland relied on the big bat of Don Mincher and the pitching of Chuck Dobson, 13-10. Mincher hit two doubles and a single and drove in two runs behind Dobson's four-hitter.

Jim Palmer equalled his 16 victories of 1969 by clipping Boston on four hits as Baltimore won its fourth in a row and ended Sonny Siebert's personal winning string at five games.

Don Wert was the power behind Detroit as he singled in one run and doubled and scored another, giving the Tigers a 2-0 lead. Mickey Stanley homered in the ninth for the extra run, but Mickey Lolich, 10-12, didn't need it, scattering seven hits as Detroit broke a four-game spin.

The Yankees jumped on Sam McDowell, 16-6, with two run homers by Thurman Munson and Bobby Murcer. Then, after Ray Fosse pulled the Indians within one run in the sixth with a three-run homer, Pete Ward and Gene Michael singled in runs in the ninth and another scored on an error.

Ed Herrmann hit the first grand slam homer of his career and Jim Magnuson won his first major league game for the White Sox. Bill Melton also drove in two runs and Syd O'Brien hit a two-run homer.

St. Louis Defeated 5-2 by New York

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Mets put ointment on Gary Gentry's blister and reliever Danny Frisella in Gentry's place as starting pitcher. It was the right treatment.

When Gentry developed a blister on his pitching hand, Frisella, also a right-hander, was given his first start of the season and he worked 72-3 innings in the Mets' 5-3 victory over St. Louis Wednesday night.

The victory kept the Mets a game behind the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0 winners over Philadelphia, in the National League East.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal beat Chicago 6-2 before the Cubs came back to win 11-3, San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 5-3, Houston shaded San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings and Los Angeles blasted Atlanta 12-2.

In the American League, the New York Yankees topped Cleveland 7-3, Kansas City took Oakland 4-1, California nipped Minnesota 7-5, Detroit edged Washington 3-1, Baltimore blanked Boston 3-0 and the Chicago White Sox walloped Milwaukee 9-3.

Frisella, who had relieved 10 times this season, stopped the Cardinals on four hits and a run until Vic Davalillo's pinch triple with two-out in the eighth. Frisella, 5-1, was then relieved by Ron Taylor who gave up an RBI single to Joe Torre, making it 5-2, and then stopped St. Louis the rest of the way.

Namath Says Football Not No.1 Concern

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Problem-plagued Joe Namath, at still another crossroads in his career, was expected to meet with New York Jets' officials today following verbal blasts by teammates Al Atkinson and Gerry Philbin that indicated the controversial quarterback was the cause of dissension on the club.

"I am going to try and sit down with Mr. Iselin (Jets President Phil Iselin) and talk to him to get this straightened out," Namath told the New York Times late Wednesday from his new East Side apartment in Manhattan.

"I've got a lot of problems. Football used to be No. 1 with me but at this stage it's not my main concern. I honestly don't know what I'm going to do. I'm working to get my problems solved. Some of them are business problems, a lot are personal."

Namath also seemed to be apologizing for the problems he had stirred on the Jets, only one year removed from their Super Bowl triumph that astounded the world of professional football, when he said:

"When someone of Al's character questions by character, I have to question myself. I don't try to hurt anybody in any way and if I have I'm sorry."

While the latest cause celebre in Namath's career of cause celebres—his failure to report to camp following the end of the players' strike—seemed to precipitate the revelation of dissatisfaction on the club, indications were that the disenchantment has existed for a considerably longer time.

That was evident in veteran defensive end Philbin's admission that a double standard going back five years has been condoned by the club in regard to Namath and Atkinson's surprise retirement at age 27 because of his complete disillusionment with Namath and players of a similar ilk.

Atkinson's deep feelings were hinted at in an official statement announcing his retirement which said:

"I was somewhat disturbed about the recent negotiations for a new players' contract. A lot of people these days just want to do their own thing. They don't know where they are going, but they want to go their own way anyway."

Atkinson said he would have more to say, but would only say it to Dave Anderson of the New York Times and Dick Young of the New York Daily News, and in interviews with them, did single out Namath for a verbal broadcast.

"What really disquists me is this quarterback not thinking for a minute about the married men on the club, the guys with responsibilities, the average little guys who have families to worry about," Atkinson said.

"That extra money in January means something to them. Not to him. He has his. It bothers me that a lot of guys with kids and mortgages are working hard hoping for a big payoff by winning the Super Bowl, but are wondering where their leader is. 'That quarterback,' Atkinson

Money's Nice But He'd Rather Win

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Larry Hinson looked almost embarrassed as he received congratulations from his fellow pros for his gutty, second place tie in last week's rich Westchester Golf Classic.

"But I didn't win," the boyishly handsome 25-year-old blond said. "I didn't win."

"That was a $7,000 putt you made," Bunky Henry said. "But I didn't win."

"You've had two seconds and three thirds this year," another pro said.

"But I didn't win."

Hinson, in his third year on the pro circuit and winner of last year's New Orleans Open, has picked up almost $84,000 this year and has been tabbed by many as one of the most promising young plays on the tour.

"The money's nice, but I want to win," the 6-foot-2, 155 pounder said today before the first round in the $150,000 American Golf Classic on the 7,180-yard, par 70 Firestone Country Club course.

He has the determination, the good looks, a certain flair with the gallery that is winning him bigger and bigger followings.

The tie with Jack Nicklaus, his playing partner, last week helped put him in the public eye.

Both trailed eventual winner Bruce Crampton by three strokes going to the final hole, a long par five. Hinson put his second shot on the green, about seven feet from the hole.

Nicklaus also reached, but was about 21 feet away.

"When I put it on the green I thought there was no way Nicklaus could beat me for second," Hinson said. "I thought the same thing when I got to the green and saw him away. But he ran that thing in and then I got mine. The guy must have nerves of steel."

Hinson said the millionaire Nicklaus told him, "Larry, that last shot of yours cost me a lot of money."

"I told him if I knew he needed the money I'd have missed the putt," Hinson said.

Hinson, a native of Douglas, Ga., now playing out of North Carolina, overcame the handicap of a polio-withered left arm to become a top money winner.

He played football, basketball, baseball and high jumped in high school after making a decision "that polio wasn't to stop me from being an average boy. I was a while convincing my parents of it, but I never doubted in my own mind that I was going to make it."

He said the victory at New Orleans was a key factor in his career.

"There's nothing like your first win on the tour to build the right attitude, and that's what New Orleans did for me," he said.

"It isn't a feeling of cockiness, but rather a feeling that you belong and have as good a chance as anyone else of winning a tournament."

Memphis 9-3 Over Arkansas

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis Blues erupted for four runs in the fifth and seventh innings to thump the Arkansas Travelers 9-3 for a Texas League victory Wednesday night.

The Blues banged out 13 hits, including five for extra bases, to pull within four games behind the Travelers, who lead the league's eastern division.

Don Camy went the distance for Memphis to pick up his first victory in as many decisions. He gave up seven hits and struck out seven.

The Blues scored four runs in the fifth on two-run homers by Luther Barnes and Chico Diaz. They came back with four more in the seventh on four singles and two walks.

The loser was Bruce von Hoff, 2-4.

Bill Stein homered for Arkansas in the eighth with a teammate aboard.

In other Texas League action, San Antonio split a doubleheader with Shreveport. San Antonio won the opener 2-1 and Shreveport took the nightcap 2-1. Dallas - Fort Worth defeated Amarillo 4-0 and Albuquerque edged El Paso 4-3.

Networks Will Cut Down Golf Coverage

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — One television network reported today it will reduce its golf coverage in 1971 because of tight money and slackening interest while another said it felt golf had stabilized as a TV attraction.

However, Joseph C. Dey, Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division, assured the millions of arm-chair viewers that there would be no reduction in screened tournaments next year.

"We are in the process of negotiating contracts," Dey said. "I feel certain we will have as many televised tournaments in 1971 as we had in 1970, perhaps even more."

Twenty-three tournaments were televised live last year, plus the Masters, U.S. and British Opens.

Of these, the American Broadcasting Company presented 13, including the two Opens, and a spokesman said ratings were above those of the previous year.

"Through May, our ratings were 34 per cent higher," the ABC source said. "In fact, in the Andy Williams Open at San Diego in February we had the highest rating in our history of golf tournaments—an average audience score of 11.2, which meant we reached 6½ million homes per average minute."

Tom Calhoun, vice-president of Hughes Sports Network which undertook seven tournaments, said, "We will be doing less than in two previous years."

"The ratings have been fairly constant but the sales response to golf has not been as strong as before. Because of the present state of the economy we simply feel we may have to reduce our golf program."

A spokesman for the Columbia Broadcasting System, which has the prestigious Masters in April, indicated CBS would not attempt to expand its limited ventures into the sport.

"We haven't experienced a lull but we feel that golf as a television attraction has stabilized," the representative said. "We have reached the maximum in audiences while production costs continue to soar."

CBS also sponsors the American Golf Classic, scheduled this week in Akron, and the CBS Golf Classic, a series of filmed elimination team matches which lasts 16 weeks. Players compete for $225,000 in prize money.

Like CBS, the National Broadcasting Company, with a heavy commitment in baseball and pro football, has limited its golf operations. During the past year, NBC sponsored the Crosby and Hope tournaments, the National Four-Ball, the AVCO and the World Series of Golf.

"The Hope was up nine per cent and the Crosby up three per cent. We definitely will continue with them," said Curt Block, NBC sports publicist. "The other tournaments are up for negotiation."

Tight money represents only part of the squeeze. The TV networks lose all cigarette advertising with the start of the 1971 season and this is said to represent about ten per cent of commercial revenues.

The Shell Oil Company has dropped a filmed golf feature which ran for nine years—the Shell Wonderful World of Golf.

"We embarked on the golf project with a target in mind," said J.A. Naye, manager of agency relations for Shell. "We found we were reaching about 10 million people."

"For the amount of money that had to be spent, we felt we had to reach out to a larger audience. So we have jumped into ecology, environment, minority affairs, areas that interest more people."

Chevrolet Unveils Vega Sub-Compact

By LOWELL MCKIRGAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet unveils its new Vega today, the second entry in the domestic subcompact field. It goes on sale next month.

John Z. DeLorean, Chevrolet's general manager, described the new car as a simple, honest answer to what General Motors research has shown to be "a basic skepticism about American manufacturers to compete effectively and responsibly in this market."

In planning for the Vega, GM said, it conducted 11 research studies and contacted 8,600 consumers representing the full range of auto buyers.

The Vega offers four models, a two-door sedan, a two-door sport coupe, station wagon and panel truck. Each will seat four passengers, except the panel truck, which can be fitted with one or two seats.

No price announcement is expected until shortly before Sept. 10 when the cars go on sale.

The other American subcompact, American Motors' Gremlin went on sale April 1. Ford's Pinto will be offered Sept. 11.

The Gremlin sells for $1,879, compared with the German import Volkswagen at $1,850.

The Vega is decidedly American in styling, somewhat like a scaled-down version of standard U.S.-made sedans and station wagons.

All four Vega models are 169.7 inches long compared to 159 for the VW beetle and 161 for the Gremlin.

The Vega will be powered by a four-cylinder aluminum engine, which Chevrolet said will deliver about 25 miles per gallon of gasoline at 90 horsepower. An optional engine will deliver 110 horsepower and somewhat lower gas mileage.

Teacher Leaders Say Union Activity Will Gain Momentum

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Teacher labor leaders predict that union activity will gain momentum this fall in urban, suburban and rural schools of all 50 states, bringing with it the increased chance of teacher strikes.

Their forecasts come after a decade which saw dramatic escalation in the number of teacher walkouts. In the past three years there have been 425 teacher strikes—nearly six times as many as there were in the previous seven years.

The labor movement, which was confined mostly to elementary and secondary schools in the 1960s, now has begun to spread to the two-year and four-year colleges.

Both the National Education Association, with 1.1 million members, and the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, with 200,000 members, are actively organizing higher education personnel.

"The most dramatic change in the next few years will be in the field of higher education," said Robert H. Chanin, NEA general counsel. "There will be a revolt of staff relations to administration in every university."

In three years the NEA affiliate, National Higher Education Association, has chartered 157 chapters with 7,770 members at two-year colleges and 132 locals with 23,000 members at four-year schools.

Negotiations now under way in New Jersey with 14 state colleges are at an impasse that could lead to a strike shutdown, Chanin said in an interview.

AFT spokesman John Converse said his organization has enlisted 15,000 higher education members spread over 200 locals. He said at the "present time the only place we are having difficulty is at Seattle Community College."

Adding thrust to the educators' labor movement are new laws in Hawaii and Pennsylvania legalizing teacher strikes. Similar legislation is sought by both teacher groups at state and national levels.

What happens in Pennsylvania will be watched closely by the NEA and AFT.

"Pennsylvania could be smooth if the school boards play the game," said Chanin. "We don't expect them to love it but we hope they will accept it and bargain in good faith."

Pennsylvania had 15 teacher strikes last year and Chanin said there undoubtedly will be more.

Converse and James E. Mundy, AFT director of organization, said among their locals they could end up with strikes in Illinois, New Haven and West Haven in Connecticut, Philadelphia and Springfield, Mass.

Converse added that there is a "grave possibility of trouble in Washington, D.C., and a distinct possibility of it in San Francisco."

Since AFT has negotiated multi-year contracts there is little likelihood of labor trouble in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City or Pittsburgh schools, he said.

Both unions look for considerable activity in the northeast. In the Midwest, Michigan has had a lot of strikes and Chanin said "we'll have fun and games in Michigan" again. Mundy agreed.

"There's a lot of grumbling in California," Chanin said, mainly over a state law which prohibits union teacher contracts.

Although last year's 180 strikes is small in relation to the number of school districts in the country—more than 21,000—the increased activity nonetheless reflects a changing attitude of the teaching profession in general toward unionism.

For years the NEA refused to identify a strike as a strike. Instead, it referred to walkouts as professional holidays, a recess or a withdrawal of services. This is no longer true, and this year the NEA voted 20 per cent of its $25.5 million budget for field staff representatives who, NEA officials say, will be skilled in organizational bargaining for teachers.

Chanin summed up the new attitude this way:

"Speeches I make now would have got me fired 10 years ago."

Chanin said there are many reasons for the changing view: a growing desire to have the right to bargain, a desire to have something to say about

Says Corpus Christi Over the Hump

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer
CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Battered Corpus Christi is "over the hump," a city official said, in recovery of essential services knocked out by Hurricane Celia. But small towns nearby still suffered today with scant relief in sight.

Property losses in the Corpus Christi metropolitan area were estimated at $375 million to $500 million.

Corpus Christi remained under curfew and armed National Guardsmen patrolled streets from dark to dawn. Looting has been minor, authorities said.

Guardsmen and state police turned back nonresidents at approaches to other communities hit by Monday's storm.

Electric power has been restored to 7,000 customers and to all vital services in Corpus Christi, a utility company spokesman said. Telephone service was available in some areas. Water service was almost completely restored and a city official said supplies are adequate for even major fires.

Small cities near here, such as Taft, Aransas Pass, Ingleside, Port Aransas and Portland, were still without utilities. All were more heavily damaged than Corpus Christi.

At hospitals minus electricity, a lack of refrigeration put perishable tetanus antitoxins in danger.

Damage to telephone facilities was estimated at $8 million. A utility official said the recovery "will be more of a rebuilding job than a restoration job."

The Coastal Power & Light Co. said it may be several weeks before every home here has electricity again, and even longer in the smaller towns.

Dozens of luxury hotels along the Corpus Christi beach were turned into dormitories for repair crews. Heavy construction equipment jammed nearby streets.

A Sun Oil Co. petroleum storage tank which caught fire during the storm continued to burn early today, lighting the horizon across Corpus Christi Bay. An earthen embankment kept the big fire from spreading.

Many downtown stores in Corpus Christi expected to reopen today, some operating amid bare, unpainted temporary repairs.

Residents in towns without water are receiving typhoid fever shots, and a state medical officer said there were no major health problems.

Peace Bells Will Toll in Hiroshima

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — On Aug. 6 and 9 the people of Hiroshima and Nagasaki remember the 1945 atomic bombs which turned their cities into wastelands. For many it will seem only yesterday.

In both cities peace bells will toll, doves will flutter into the sky. Buddhist sutras will be chanted in memory of the dead.

After these solemn pauses, Hiroshima and Nagasaki will return to everyday living. On the surface, inhabitants of both cities are indistinguishable from their 100 million compatriots.

Long since rebuilt, neither city at first glance seems any different from other Japanese cities.

Nagasaki, which wants to forget, has a single monument to mark its black day. Hiroshima, designated a "peace memorial city," because it was first to suffer 4 atomic devastation, maintains a museum of atomic horrors, a cenotaph and a peace park. A gleaming white building has been erected by the Chugoku Press close to the hypocenter of the palace, "the lightning bomb" which added a grim chapter to the history of World War II.

On the roof is a gay beer garden, a favorite of young people. Their conversation covers the fortunes of the Hiroshima Carps pro baseball team, the latest American, Italian or Swedish movie, the newest motorbike.

The bomb seems remote, too, to the throngs in Motomachi, the area used in 1945 exclusively by the Japanese army for divisional and regimental headquarters, barracks, hospitals and parade grounds. The bomb changed its character. Now it houses government offices, the post office, courts, the Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the stadium where the Carps play.

Kijiyama Koen, the wind-washed park where young couples go to get a breath of air and see Hiroshima stretched out below them, also seems far from the events of 1945. But there the memories are kept green. One part of Kijiyama houses the Quonset huts of the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission.

Almost entirely supported by the United States—it has spent $30 million, Japan $1 million since 1947—the commission is engaged in a long-term study of the human effect of the bombs' massive doses of radiation.

Its findings are expected to contribute to the safety of technicians engaged in handling the atom for peaceful purposes, and people dealing with x-rays.

But military witnesses insisted the chance of anything going wrong with the upcoming operation is virtually nil.

Sens. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., said they are not particularly concerned about the rail trip to Sunny Point, but still hold definite reservations about possible damage the gas could cause marine life if the concrete coffins break open on the ocean floor.

One Pentagon witness, Dr. Conrad Cheek, said the half-life of toxic agents in the rockets is just under 12 hours. In 10 days the entire shipment of gas, if it all leaked out at once, would be reduced to one millionth of its original volume.

Says Owing Nightclub Not Violation

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Football commissioner Pete Rozelle Wednesday authorized Ernie Wheelwright to report to the New Orleans training camp, saying the Saints' running back had violated no rules by owing a nightclub.

Rozelle said a review of Wheelwright's case showed he had violated no regulations of the National Football League, its constitution and by-laws or club rules through ownership of Central Park South, a tavern in suburban Metairie.

Wheelwright said he had been thinking about selling the nightclub because it had "given me a lot of headaches" and keeping only his Zodiac Lounge in New Orleans "but after talking with my wife, we've decided to keep them both and make a go of it."

Martha Jett Is Winner in State Meet

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Defending champion Martha Jett defeated Mrs. Jack Cheney 7 and 6 in the state women's golf tournament here Wednesday.

In other matches in the championship flight, Lee Larson defeated Mrs. Paul Cullum, 3 and 2; Jan Latimer defeated Mrs. Joe Finley, 3 and 2; Peggy Turnage defeated Mrs. Rise Alexander, 2 and 1; Dot Germain defeated Mrs. Jim Allen Wood, 3 and 2; Debby Ault defeated Mrs. Marge Hale, 2 up; Judy Besancon defeated Mrs. John Mott, 4 and 3; and Mrs. Jim Wellons defeated Robin Watson, 4 and 3.

The tournament will continue through Saturday at the North Hills Country Club.

Alworth Says He Was Vastly Underpaid

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Lance Alworth says he quit pro football because he was vastly underpaid.

The All Star wide receiver of the San Diego Chargers unexpectedly retired Tuesday and Wednesday he said he never received the salary many believed he was earning.

It had been estimated that the 6-foot former Arkansas pass catcher had earned about $70,000 yearly on a long-term contract.

"If the published figures were correct, I couldn't afford to quit football," Alworth said. "But I can go to Phoenix and earn $25,000 or $30,000 along with certain other opportunities and do better than I can playing with the Chargers. I've been offered a fine job and the time came to retire."

Alworth's lawyer, Don Augustine, said Alworth made a series of good business deals but got caught in the tight money market. The Chargers' refusal to renegotiate Alworth's contract was the main reason for retiring, he added.

Will Foreign Capital Stay in US Stock?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A tremendous amount of foreign capital has been placed in American stocks during the past three years, much of it during the worst bear market in years, and some financial people are wondering now if it will stay.

For many foreign investors it was quite likely their first venture into such deals, and they have been badly burned. For others it might have been a repeat of 1929, when a similar but smaller influx was recorded and lost.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York estimates that since the spring of 1967 the total foreign investment in U.S. equities totaled nearly $4.5 billion.

The flood began following several years in which foreign sales of American stocks exceeded purchases. By 1968, the bank said, the flow "had turned into an avalanche."

Among factors cited for the shift of funds were student disorders in France, and the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia, which alarmed many Europeans who had seen their continent erupt in massive wars twice this century.

At the same time, however, many Europeans and other foreigners believed that the U.S. economy was in precarious shape, inflated and otherwise unbalanced, and that the dollar was losing power and should be devalued.

Perhaps the real reason for the influx was the establishment and growth of foreign mutual funds and bank trusts, some of them designed specifically to route money into U.S. stocks.

American financial interests have set up at least 200 of these so-called offshore funds.

The question that puzzles and disturbs some financial people is whether the investments are permanent or whether they will be withdrawn as these novice investors realize that equities, even the American kind, move both ways.

If the investments have some degree of permanency, then the United States is one small step closer to resolving its serious and chronic balance of payments problem, the result of too many dollars escaping overseas relative to the amount of foreign spending and investing in the United States.

Indications so far are that much of the new capital is here to stay, not so much because of any beneficial results to foreign investors, but because a selling and investing apparatus has been set up where none existed before.

Not All at Once
 Only John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, and Charles Thomson, the secretary, signed the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. The formal ceremony was on Aug. 2, but only about 50 of the 56 signers were there then; the others signed when it was convenient.

House Fixes $55,000 Farm Pay Ceiling

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has fixed a $55,000 per crop ceiling on subsidy payments to producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains.

After defeating of bids to set the limit at $20,000 or less, the House passed by an unexpectedly large 41-vote margin and sent to the Senate Wednesday night the omnibus three-year farm bill.

The $55,000 limit on what producers can be paid for not growing crops had been written by the House Agriculture Committee and endorsed by President Nixon. Present law sets no ceiling.

The final vote on the bill was 212-171, with Republicans split down the middle—86 for and 86 against.

All attempts to change the bill from the form approved by the Agriculture Committee after more than a year's labor were shunted aside.

"This is purely a coalition bill which has the support of both parties in the administration," Chairman W.R. Poage, D-Tex., told newsmen.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin commented, "Approval of the $55,000 payment ceiling limitation would make the program more effective than the lower limitations which were considered."

Cost of the over-all package was estimated at about $4.5 billion annually—$3.5 billion for the farm subsidies and $1 billion for the Food for Peace program. This is about the current spending level.

Reps. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., and Paul Findley, R-Ill., led the unsuccessful drive to slice the level to $20,000.

The two Republicans tried to include wool, add on provisions to prevent evasion by subdivision of farms and the like, and to apply the ceiling to lands owned by political subdivisions.

However, their package amendment was defeated on a non-record tally, 161-134.

Conte says he will try to have the lower limit restored when the separate agriculture bill goes to a conference committee.

This was the first time any sort of limitation had been written into a basic farm bill.

The Senate, approved the $20,000 ceiling on the money bill for the fiscal year which began last July 1. The House version had no such provision.

Ford Posts $125 Price Hike on Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is increasing new car wholesale prices to dealers by 5 per cent—averaging $125 a car—for 1971 models which go on sale Sept. 11 and 18.

A company spokesman said Wednesday it was impossible to say what the price boost, if any, may be on the retail level.

Ford was the first U.S. automaker to announce an increase in prices for 1971, although such increases had been expected as automakers found themselves squeezed between rising costs and sagging sales. There was no immediate reaction from either Chrysler Corp. or General Motors.

Many industry observers believe there will be a second round of price increases if contract negotiations between the automakers and the United Auto workers union now in progress result in substantial wage increases.

Ford also announced Wednesday that it was discontinuing its optional five-year warranty on drivetrain components (engine, drive shaft, differential and rear axle). The warranty, at one time standard, was reduced to a $15-extra-cost option in 1970 models. The 12-month, 12,000-mile warranty on all components continues.

Denies Sale of Vodka at Prison Farm

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Raymond Hawkins, a civilian "long-line" supervisor at Cummins Prison Farm, denied Wednesday allegations by three prison inmates that they had bought vodka from him in the fields at the farm.

The testimony came as U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley heard witnesses to determine progress made in improving the state's prisons since he ruled in February that the operations of the facilities were unconstitutional. Henley has ordered that the prisons be brought up to "constitutional tolerability."

Inmates Eldon Gene Brown, Jack A. Randall and Don Eugene Harding, each of whom is now incarcerated in the disciplinary barracks at Cummins, made the allegations about buying vodka from Hawkins.

Harding said he had bought vodka at $10 a pint from Hawkins at least four or five times.

Brown also testified that there was still money lending going on in the prison barracks in violation of the rules. He said interest was 50 cents on a dollar.

Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver said the isolation units now had a free-world officer on duty around the clock.

He said conditions at the isolation unit at Cummins had been improved, but the units were still "pretty doggy."

The commissioner also said the prison now has a disciplinary barracks for inmates who cause trouble, but that the old baseball field was still used for detention of inmates who refused to work.

Six women inmates at Cummins Prison Farm complained of a lack of medical attention at their reformatory.

The women testified they did not receive prompt of thorough attention from Dr. Jack Eardley, the prison physician.

Delores Boutte said that although she had several ailments, she had never received a thorough examination.

She said she once performed an operation on herself to remove a vaginal cyst.

The women testified in a hearing on a writ by inmates complaining of conditions in the women's reformatory. The complaints centered mostly on lack of medical attention.

The petitioners also challenged the constitutionality of a state law that permits women to be sent to the reformatory for up to three years for habitual drunkenness. There is no similar law for the confinement of men for alcoholism.

State Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver told the hearing that the reformatory had no facility to cope with alcoholics. He said there is nothing prison authorities can do for the alcoholics at the prison except give them sedatives.

Mrs. Dorothy Newman, 50, who is confined at the reformatory, testified that she had been committed to the state prison about 20 times for alcoholism. She said she also had been in the State Hospital about 30 times.

Sarver said Mrs. Newman was a very difficult inmate who had attempted several times to harm herself, once by drinking a disinfectant and once by trying to cut her throat.

He said neither Mrs. Newman nor the other woman confined for habitual drunkenness, Mrs. Flora Robinson, had any business in the state prison.

After the testimony of the women inmate on medical treatment, Sarver took the stand to testify that Eardley spent a great deal of his time at the women's barracks. He said Eardley had a regular sick call at the prison for women inmates and a former matron, Mrs. Williford said the physician sometimes visited the reformatory three or four times a week.

Sarver said he thought some of the complaints about the reformatory were the result of agitation by some of the newer women inmates, including Pat Kozal.

The commissioner said that efforts beginning in late 1968 to raise morale at the reformatory had been successful. He said that he, Mrs. Williford and other staff members had sought to raise morale by permitting the inmates to wear free-world clothing and stressing personal hygiene.

He said recreational programs were introduced and the prison band had begun to come to the reformatory to play for the women.

Youth, 19, Killed Near Osceola

OSCEOLA, Ark. (AP) — William C. Shoaf, 19, of Osceola was killed Wednesday night when the car he was driving slid 300 feet and slammed into a utility pole on Arkansas 119 about five miles south of here.

Injured in the accident were Sherrie Chism, 16, and Bobby Scott, 18, both of Osceola. A third passenger, Don Willing, 19, of Osceola was not injured.

Miss Chism was transferred to a Memphis hospital. Scott and Willing were treated at a local hospital and released.

Laying Base for Manson's Appeal

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys, satisfied they have laid the groundwork for a possible future appeal in the Sharon Tate murder case, say they are abandoning their quest for a mistrial based on comments by President Nixon.

Three times the attorneys asked that the trial be called off following President Nixon's comment in Denver, Colo.—later retracted—that he believed one of the four defendants, Charles M. Manson, guilty.

Three times Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older has denied the motion.

"This will be one of the biggest cases in history regarding prejudicial publicity," commented coprosecutor Vincent Bugliosi during a break in Wednesday's proceedings.

Highlights:

—A plea by Irving Kanarek, attorney for Manson, 35, that president Nixon be asked to take the witness stand in the case so that defense attorneys might learn his motives in taking up publicly the Manson trial. The motion was denied.

—A plea by Paul Fitzgerald, attorney for Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, for a mistrial on grounds the jury was unduly influenced Tuesday when Manson branished a newspaper headline in court reading: "Manson Guilty, Nixon Declares." Judge Older, in ruling against the motion, said he was certain the jury could still "render a fair and impartial verdict."

—Manson's three women co-defendants arising when the jury returned to the courtroom to chant in unison: "President Nixon says we're guilty, so why go on with the trial."

On trial with Manson and Miss Krenwinkel are Susan Atkins, 21, and Leslie Van Houten, 20.

Bugliosi told newsmen that should the four defendants be convicted on charges of murder and conspiracy in last August's slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others: "I'm sure on appeal, this is going to be an important case on pretrial as well as in trial publicity."

Nixon told newsmen in Denver Monday Manson was "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

Later he amended this saying he had not intended to speculate on the guilt or innocence of the defendants who "should be presumed innocent at this stage of the trial."

Besides the Tate slayings,

Manson is charged with murder in the death of a Malibu musician.

Testimony Wednesday centered on the credibility of the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, who resumed the witness stand for cross-examination.

One line of questioning dealt with Mrs. Kasabian's experience with the drug LSD, with the defense contending her use of it may have clouded her memory of the slayings.

The other line of questioning focused on Mrs. Kasabian's testimony in a child custody case—testimony in which the defense says Mrs. Kasabian lied to get her daughter back from a foster home.

Miss Tate and four others were killed at Miss Tate's Bel Air mansion Aug. 9. The following night, Mr. and Mrs. Leno LaBianca were slain in their Los Angeles home.

Mrs. Kasabian had been charged with the seven slayings, but she has been granted immunity for testifying for the prosecution.

Court recessed for the day after Mrs. Kasabian complained to Kanarek that she was very tired and was experiencing difficulty understanding his questions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's Denver statement about the Charles Manson murder trial was "the most amazing speech I've ever heard" in 30 years in the House, says Rep. Hale Boggs.

Boggs, a Louisiana Democrat, told the House Wednesday: "What the President did is indefensible, inexcusable, unexplainable and obviously prejudiced the trial."

In a Denver news conference Tuesday, Nixon said Manson is "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders." His press secretary said later Nixon meant to add the qualifier "alleged."

Boggs, replying to a statement by Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said Wiggins was "blaming the press for the President declaring a man on trial guilty in a public place, on television."

Wiggins accused the press of abusing its privileges in reporting Nixon's comments on the Manson trial, under way in Los Angeles.

"The President spoke to a small group of newsmen a thousand miles from the Manson trial," Wiggins declared. "He did not say a word to the jury or anyone else connected with that trial. But the press has been veritably shouting the words of the President into the ear of anyone connected with that trial without letting up, for two days, and for what purpose?"

Wiggins said Nixon was wrong in making the remark, but said the President's real error was in not recognizing that "the press would irresponsibly carry his words to the courtroom and possibly prejudice the accused thereby."

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said newsmen would have been derelict if they had not reported Nixon's statement.

Says Schools Pressured on Insurance

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Education Commissioner A. W. Ford said Wednesday that a number of school superintendents had told him they had been warned by insurance agents of the possibility of having their fire insurance cancelled.

Ford termed the move a "pressure tactic" aimed at forcing the districts to pay higher premiums in order to keep insurance on school property.

The commissioner charged that it was not the local agents, but the "financial power structure" of the insurance industry that wants the rates forced up.

"The public does not seem to realize the enormous size of the property insurance enterprise," Ford said. "It's time the people were taking a close look at their property insurance."

Ford reiterated his support of a state self-insurance plan and he said most Arkansas superintendents were in favor of the plan. A self-insurance program would have to be created by the General Assembly and it probably would run into resistance from the insurance industry, Ford said.

Rudolph Bryant, supervisor of school safety for the Education Department, said Arkansas school men were concerned about the possibility of cancellation and higher premiums and were ready for a major push for self-insurance.

AM&N Aimed to Maintain Segregation

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A petition was mailed today to federal officials complaining that predominantly Negro Arkansas AM&N College here was created for the express purpose of maintaining a racially segregated school.

The petition claimed the college's board and officials have maintained a racially segregated faculty and staff in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which has "promoted unlawful segregation of the students and provided unequal educational opportunities."

The petition was signed by Elmer Lybrand, Charles Ezell Fr., Dean Norman, Carolyn Patton and Charles M. Brunall members of the Arkansas chapters of Freedom Inc., a

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset

Texarkana, Tex.-based organization formed more than a year ago to promote freedom of choice as the method to achieve school desegregation. Lybrand is a member of the state and national boards of the organization.

The petition was mailed to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Elliott L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and Randolph Throver, Internal Revenue commissioner at Atlanta, Ga.

"They've (board and officials) made white students feel unwelcome by not hiring white professors," Lybrand said. "They can hire all the white teachers they want to. It can become a white majority institution."

The five asked that HEW withhold all federal funds or grants from the college until the "racially discriminatory system" is eliminated "root and branch." They said an acceptable plan should be provided for a racially integrated faculty with a racial ratio equivalent to that of the state.

They asked that the Justice Department initiate court action against the college to "terminate the racial policies and to operate hereafter without unlawful segregation and to 'do it now.' Pursuant to present policy, the department should send lawyers to AM&N for the purpose of assuring against unconstitutional de jure segregation."

They asked the IRS to deny tax-exempt status for the college because "it is a form of 'government support' which aids their discriminatory policy." They said the tax-exempt status should remain denied until the deliberate racial segregation of the faculty is effectively eliminated and the school is providing "equal educational opportunities on equal term for all."

Out of 446 total employees at AM&N, 23 are non-Negro. On

Says WR Welcomes Facing Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dale Bumpers of Charleston, a Democratic gubernatorial hopeful, told a Little Rock news conference Tuesday that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller would "welcome" facing former Gov. Orval Faubus in the general election because he could defeat the former governor.

Bumpers said he was the only candidate in the gubernatorial race who could defeat both Rockefeller and Faubus. Bumpers said the election of Faubus would "not only be the death knell of the Democratic party in Arkansas but also set the lowest tone of politics the state has ever experienced."

Bumpers also observed that he thought the gubernatorial campaign was becoming more intense. He said the voters should "beware of candidates who continually dwell on the shortcomings of others."

"I don't think the candidates should spend all their time on the deficiencies of other candidates," Bumpers said. "They should offer some positive programs to the voters."

Asked who were belaboring the deficiencies of others, Bumpers named Hayes McCler-kin, W. S. Cheek and Jim Malone, all Democratic candidates. He said their target was Faubus.

Bumpers said he had also criticized Faubus and Rockefeller, but that he also was offering "positive and effective" programs to improve the state. Bumpers revealed his campaign platform which called for the repeal of the state's "fair trade" liquor law, expansion of medical services and strengthening of the state's medical internship program, removal of the sales tax on prescription medicine and Welfare Department assistance to welfare recipients whose drug bills exceed $10 a month.

He endorsed a program of self-insurance of public and institutional property.

He also called for the raising of public school teachers' salaries to the level of surrounding states.

Coast Still Recovering From Camille

By ED TUNSTALL
Associated Press Writer
PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. (AP) — It roared in from the Gulf of Mexico as nothing before, a fury of nature called Hurricane Camille. And today, almost a year later, the scars are still there. They may be there forever.

Camille stalked inland in the dead of night in August 17, twisting Mississippi's Gulf Coast with merciless winds clocked at more than 200 miles per hour, surpassing anything on record books.

"It was a once-in-a-century hurricane," said Dr. Robert Simpson of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "No coastline will ever be prepared for a storm like Camille."

And before Camille was through, she left almost 150 dead in Mississippi and seven in Louisiana. Virginia and West Virginia, swept by floods created by Camille's sweep over Appalachia, listed more than 100 dead.

Damage to property—almost beyond estimate—was officially placed at almost $1.5 billion.

But the spirit is strong and along the white sands of the Mississippi coast, the whine of heavy machine and the ring of carpenters' hammers' echo over the land.

Building is booming and business is good in many Gulf Coast towns which still have broken streets and shattered homes as grim reminders of that fearful night.

The Gulf Coast has long been the wedding sanctuary of land and hurricane. Nothing can change that: nature designed it so.

"Hell, we've had hurricanes, and bad ones, or so we thought," said Gulf Coast Civil Defense coordinator Nap Cassibry after Camille. "But I just couldn't conceive of 190-mile an hour winds."

It was just that, that Gulf Coasters had been through hurricanes before and had ridden them out, which caused many to stay and not heed the warnings.

The challenge to rebuild was kindled by help that poured in from all across the nation. Louisiana shipped in fresh water by truck tankers and a man from Montgomery, Ala., sent down his truck and building materials.

To be sure, tourists have not flocked to the coast this summer as they have in years past but Mayor Daniel Gulce of Biloxi said "we are still enjoying a fairly good tourist season."

A Gulfport realtor, Carl Alfonso, said the disappearance of some coastline mansions made the land more attractive to commercial interests. And he indicated there are plans for hotels and motels and apartment complexes.

A bright light popped on last month when the Navy Department awarded a $2-billion contract for 30 destroyers to the Litton-Ingalls shipbuilding plant at Pascagoula, on the eastern end of the Mississippi coast.

"Property values actually are higher now than before Camille," Mayor Gulce said, "because of interest shown by investors. This Litton contract is a big boost."

The Gulf Coast was a playground, and will be again for those who seek the sun and the Gulf's waters.

But it cannot be the same, never again.

It was little Pass Christian that took the storm's main fury and then crumbled under the cluster of tornadoes that spun off the hurricane.

Pass Christian is a charming little place, a homey town. President Woodrow Wilson once wintered here and the small white house where he lived didn't escape the storm's crush.

It will be tough for Pass Christian to come back. So many homes vanished. Mayor J. J. Wittmann said that while the little city is making progress, "we won't have the big, beautiful homes we used to have. It costs too much to replace them and people may be a bit shy about building expensive homes again."

More than $60 million have been spent in cleanup operations and restoring public facilities. The Small Business Administration has made about $11 million in disaster loans with another $10 million expected to be made.

Insurance companies have paid about $120 million in claims through many residents

HOW DO YOU COOL IT on a hot, humid summer afternoon? The answer among young people at least, seems to be universal—find running water. If you're in a small community like Northampton, Mass., there's the spillway of a flood-control dam (bottom right). If you're in a metropolis like Rome (top) or Toronto, Canada (bottom left), there are fountains.

Hunt on for New And Better Foods

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Nutrition Columnist

Estimates imply that by the year 2000 the world's population will double. That means an enormous number of mouths to feed within the next 30 years. A special congress of scientists, technologists and educators will meet in Washington, D.C., in August to try to solve the urgency of this problem. It will be called SOS/70, or the meeting for the Science of Survival.

The great demands for more meat and milk will have to be met with equally palatable and nutritious substitutes. Many scientists foresee that soybean products will become a large factor in these efforts to provide enough protein food.

Dr. H. E. Robinson, immediate past-president of the Institute of Food Technologists, who will be hosts for SOS/70, says:

"Take frankfurters for example of the likely use of soybean protein. The government today restricts the use of nonmeat in them to 2 to 4 per cent. They fear deception. But if the frankfurters are marked as containing soybean protein and under pressure of rising population demands more is used, with government O.K., they could contain up to 20 per cent of soybean protein—a tasteless, highly nutritious product containing an assortment of amino acids that may be even better than in meat. This is one way to ease pressures on our meat supplies by a substitution that is increasingly plentiful, nutritious and palatable."

At the congress, 3,000 scientists and other knowledgeable persons will discuss proteins, nutrition, grains and soybeans, sensory properties of food, microbiology, etc. Fifty countries will be represented, including some from behind the Iron Curtain. It will be co-sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"I predict that two-thirds of the food Americans will eat in 1985 will be in forms not familiar to the public today. Yet our food will continue to be good to eat and highly nutritious," Robinson, a University of Pittsburgh biologist and corporate vice-president for research and development of Swift & Co., believes.

He believes also that the cultivation of oil and proteins from soybeans offers the outstanding possibility for food improvement. The second best source will be dried and contend they were badly treated by claims adjusters. Some cases are in the courts.

The nights that catch the eye along the coast today are just two, primarily: either work crews are clearing away what were once homes, or new homes are going up.

Dr. H. E. Robinson

processed fish products. In the future, there will be petroleum-based proteins and protein supplies from algae, seaweed and leaves.

"Very soon the consumer can expect delicious high protein snacks made from textured soybean protein. These will be enriched with iron, a plus for many teenage girls and women who are probably short in iron," he says.

Today completely imitation milks are gaining in popularity. Mellorine, a substitute for ice cream in which vegetable or other fat replaces butter fat, is sold legally in 13 states. Coffee whiteners and whipped toppings have taken around 35 per cent of the market from light cream.

"These changes in consistencies without loss in flavor or nutrition in the food we are now eating point to the vast changes ahead. Our expanding population, always hungry, will demand them," Robinson comments.

Says Reagan Capitalizes on Campus

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The president-designate of Columbia University says California Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration has sought political gain from campus disturbances.

William McGill, now chancellor at the University of California at San Diego, made the statement to the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

He was a witness Tuesday at the first of two days of hearings here, the new commission's first hearings outside Washington.

"There is a major political concern about universities and state colleges in California," McGill said, created partly by "the radical political activity of students and faculty."

How Not To Do It

It is a well known fact that not all juvenile offenders come from the so-called disadvantaged sectors. Parental attitudes and examples and those of teachers and friends influence the young person of any background who is in the early stages of building up his own principles.

We are sure that no parent wants to raise a delinquent child. But if there is such a rare individual, here are ten rules for doing so, and, conversely, what not to do if you do not wish to raise such a child. They were prepared by the Houston, Tex., Police Department:

"1. Begin at infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.

"2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. This will make him think he's cute.

"3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21, and then let him 'decide for himself.'

"4. Pick up everything he leaves lying around - books, shoes, clothes. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing all responsibility to others.

"5. Quarrel frequently in his presence. In this way he will not be too shocked when the home is broken later.

"6. Give a child all he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?

"7. Satisfy his every craving for food, drink, and comfort. Denial may lead to harmful frustrations.

"8. Take his part against neighbors, teachers, policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.

"9. When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying 'I never could do anything with him.'

"10. Prepare for a life of grief. You are bound to have it."

Panthers to Help the Viet Cong

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Released from jail on bond, Black Panthers leader Huey P. Newton says his militant Negro group will pledge members to help the political arm of the Viet Cong in Vietnam.

Within two hours after his release Wednesday in nearby Oakland, the Panthers' cofounder and minister of defense told newsmen:

"We are going to pledge troops from the Black Panther party to the National Liberation Front."

"We have our own domestic problems, but we can do it. The fascist United States has its domestic problems, too, and it has troops in Vietnam," Newton, 28, told newsmen in the office of his attorney.

Newton set no timetable and did not elaborate on the plan, but repeated the pledge of troops when questioned by newsmen. He said other revolutionary groups also will participate.

Newton was free for the first time in 33 months on $50,000 bail awaiting retrial in the 1967 slaying of an Oakland policeman.

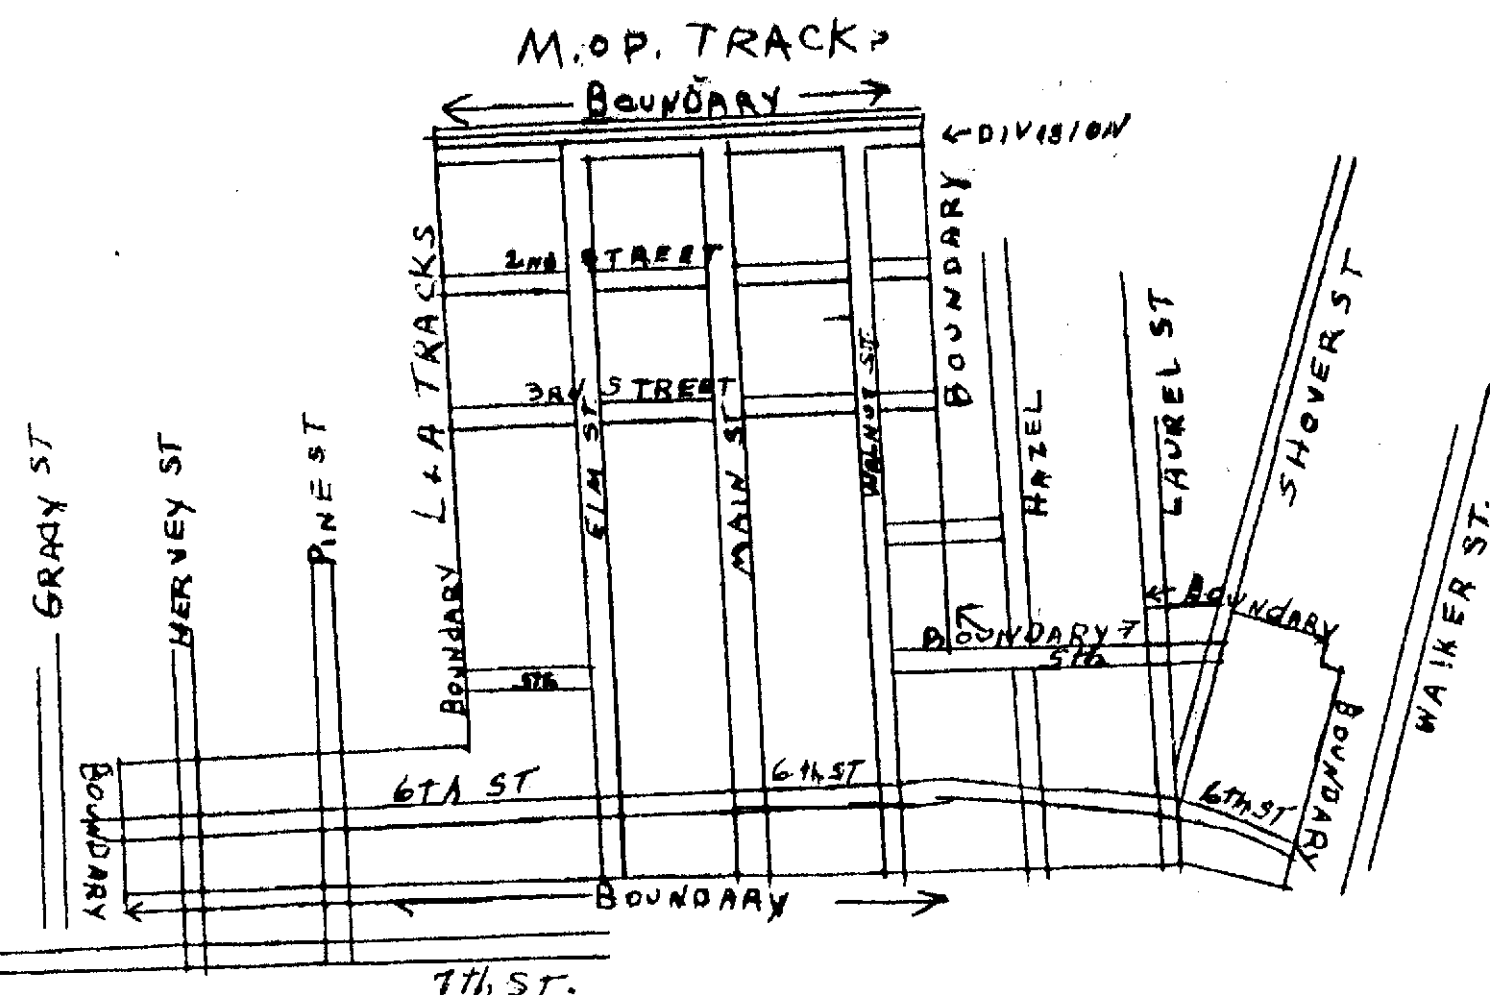

When he left Alameda County jail Wednesday, a crowd of about 350 greeted him.

Newton's 1968 conviction for voluntary manslaughter in the death of officer John Frey was overturned last May by the state Court of Appeal. He had been serving a prison term of 2 to 15 years.

The reversal was upheld last week by the California Supreme Court.

The conviction was reversed on grounds the trial judge failed to inform the jury of the defense possibilities in Newton's claim he was unconscious from a bullet wound when Frey was killed on Oct. 28, 1967. Frey and another officer had stopped Newton's car.

UN Envoy Hopeful of Mideast Deal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said Wednesday night that he hopes the new Middle East cease-fire proposed by the United States will take effect "very soon." But the Palestinian guerrillas vowed to keep the fighting going, even if it means attacking U.N. truce observers.

Ambassador Charles W. Yost met for three hours with the chief U.N. delegates of the other Big Four powers—Britain, France and the Soviet Union. They passed the word to Secretary-General U. Thant that he should send U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring back to the Middle East now that Egypt, Jordan and Israel have accepted the U.S. proposal for a 90-day cease-fire and resumption of indirect peace negotiations.

However, there was no indication of just when the acceptance of the U.S. proposal would be translated into orders to stop shooting and stand fast.

Representatives of two Palestinian guerrilla organizations told a news conference in Tripoli, Libya, Wednesday that even if a cease-fire is proclaimed they are prepared "to force U.N. observers off the cease-fire line to keep up the fight against Israel."

Abu Nedat of Al Fatah and Bashat Aby Garblah of the Palestine Popular Struggle Front declared that their groups would continue to fight to "liberate" Israel from communism.

While the guerrilla threat promised continued harassment along Israel's frontiers with Jordan and Lebanon, it should have no effect on a cease-fire between Egypt and Israel since there are no Palestinians along the Suez Canal front. The guerrillas already had said they would not be bound by any cease-fire, and the Jordanian government in its acceptance of the U.S. proposal said it could not curb the Palestinians.

U.S. officials in Washington said the United States would propose that Israel and Egypt themselves do most of the policing of their cease-fire. They said the current thinking in Washington is that the U.N. observers could assist in the watch against ground violations.

Man, 93, Dies in Collision

ASHDOWN, Ark. (AP)—Alex Duckett, 93, of near Ashdown was killed Wednesday in a car-truck collision on Arkansas 32 five miles west of here.

Police said a car driven by Duckett made a left turn into the path of a truck driven by William E. Moore, 18, of Foreman. Moore was not injured.

Love, Hope, Happiness Sum Up Meaning of Life to Many People

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you had to sum up the meaning of life to you in a single word, what would that word be? Life is—what?"

In interviewing some 1,500 people in the last 15 years, I have found that question to be the one that intrigues them most.

Perhaps not surprisingly, the response to the query of what life means reveals Americans to be stubbornly optimistic people. For a great majority answered with one of these three words—love, hope, happiness.

Love, hope, happiness—that is what most of them said life meant to them, young or old, rich or poor, wise or foolish. If there were any difference by sex in their answers, it was that women were more likely to say that life is love and men to say that it is hope.

People who had survived an illness or lost a loved one were more likely to say life is hope. Those in good health and with fond expectations were more inclined to say that life is happiness.

Several people said life is achievement, quest, search, adventure, discovery, pleasure, fun.

Three said life is family. Two, both Roman Catholics, said life to them is God.

One, an executive now self-retired, said life is confusion.

A few said life is existence.

Chance of Scattered Showers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No relief was in sight before the weekend of the hot and humid weather that has been witting Arkansas the past several days.

A chance of scattered thundershowers will continue during the afternoons and evenings.

Heavy thundershowers dumped up to two inches of rain in remote sections of the state Wednesday, the U. S. Weather Bureau said, but most points where rainfall occurred reported less than an inch.

Temperatures Wednesday afternoon again soared to near or above the 100-degree mark. Jonesboro was the coolest spot with a high of 93 degrees while Fort Smith was the hottest with a high of 105 degrees.

Overnight lows were 73 at Fayetteville, 72 at Harrison, 73 at Jonesboro, 76 at Pine Bluff, 76 at El Dorado, 78 at Texarkana, 74 at Little Rock and 77 at Fort Smith.

Rainfall recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today included .06 of an inch at Jonesboro and .14 at Pine Bluff.

Many, struggling for a word, came up with "Life is ... life is ... why, life is living." They meant by that, I gathered, that no other word could adequately capsule the range and mystery of life.

But no one I questioned said that life is work, labor, money, cash or credit or evil.

Very few people were downright pessimistic. One man did say, "Life is frustration." A few days later he told me he wanted to change his word. Figuring he must be feeling somewhat better, I asked him what he wanted to change it to. "Life is a dead end," he replied.

My own word for the meaning of life is hunger—the desire to know the unknowable, the unrealizable wish to have every experience and to see what is going on in every corner of life.

But the answer I liked best was one given to me by a friend of 40 years, well acquainted with the pangs and perils and rare enjoyments of life.

"Life," he said, "is bitter-sweet."

It is at that, isn't it?

Sees Upward Trend in Business

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Securities Commissioner William T. Sherman said Wednesday that even though the business picture had been "dark" during recent months, the trend showed an upward movement.

Sherman told the Little Rock Sertoma Club that the growth rate for Arkansas had been higher than the national average.

Stiffer regulation in recent months of securities in Arkansas has not affected the volume of business, Sherman said.

He said the Arkansas Securities Commission had enforced state statutes to the fullest extent.

Hardin to Open Riceland Office

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin is scheduled to make the dedicatory address Sept. 3 for the new $2 million office building of Riceland Foods here.

Riceland Foods is the new trade name adopted by two of the largest cooperative associations of farmers in Arkansas for the soybeans and rice they distribute throughout the world.

Formerly called the Arkansas Rice Growers Cooperative Association and the Arkansas Grain Corporation, the associations are celebrating their 50th anniversary.

Government Paper Work to Be Cut

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has called for a cutback in executive branch paperwork after noting the cost of shuffling paper in the federal government approaches $10 billion a year.

In a memo to department and agency heads, Nixon put forward a plan for the current budget year that he hopes will save the executive branch $200 million and shave off 5 million man-hours of work.

The action affects individuals, businesses and state and local officials who are required to fill out more than 5,000 questionnaires under the Federal Reports Act.

Norman Peterson, an official of the recently-created Office of Management and Budget, told newsmen at the White House Wednesday night the cost of handling paperwork in the federal government—including the Congress and the courts—currently is estimated at $8 billion to $10 billion each year.

Nixon can do nothing about letter writing and other written exchanges by members of Congress or the judiciary.

But he called for a five percent cutback in the estimated 100 million man-hours that folks outside the federal government now put in each year filling out administrative forms and inquiries covered by the Reports Act.

Nixon hopes to save $200 million in fiscal 1971 on executive branch handling of the required reports.

Peterson estimated the executive branch currently spends about $41 billion a year processing required reports—but that figure includes income tax returns and a variety of other questionnaires not covered by the laws over which the President has some direct jurisdiction.

WR Headquarters Pays $100 Bond

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Officials of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's campaign headquarters here paid a $100 surety bond Wednesday to comply with a city ordinance directed at hanging a banner across a city street.

Hot Springs City Clerk J. H. Smith said Tuesday he would ask for the bond if the governor intended to keep a banner stretched across Central Avenue.

2.3 Million for Urban Renewal

By JUSTIN CALDWELL

A committee of all property owners within the 77-acre area in the center of town designated for urban renewal met Wednesday in the Douglas Building with Mike Kelly, executive director of the Hope Housing and Urban Renewal Authority. About 48 were present.

Mr. Kelly began by explaining that the program will start with a survey of buildings in the area. All buildings will be photographed from the front and back and the interiors of some structures will be inspected. Besides business establishments, the area also includes some residences. A socio-economic survey (family structure, income, etc.) of these dwellings will be made.

For the sake of convenience, the area has been divided into three parts, the tenants of each part meeting together at a later date. Optimistically, Mr. Kelly stated, "We've got the best program of any place I've ever seen." He then introduced the city planner for the project, Thomas L. Hodges of Urban Planning and Development Consultants, Inc. of Little Rock.

Mr. Hodges explained the steps in the urban renewal project. After the survey of property is made all property to be rehabilitated is acquired. Next improvements such as street repairs and sewer and water lines are installed. Then the property is sold back to private enterprise. The urban renewal project itself is not involved in any building. The project is mainly concerned with clearance, rehabilitation and conservation. However, loans can be made for repairs on buildings not declared dilapidated. There are 251 structures in the area, all of which will be appraised.

A total of $2.3 million will be spent on the project. Three-fourths of this will be in federal funds. The remaining quarter must come from state and city funds. Previous improvements within the area may be credited to the local obligation. For example, the $300,000 spent on 6th St. improvements will be matched by $900,000 in federal funds. Any local funds over the 25 percent requirement can be used on other projects.

Mike Kelly closed the meeting by pointing out that urban renewal will revitalize downtown Hope so as to eliminate the possibility of shopping centers on the edge of town, which would erode the city's tax base. He expressed his view that a downtown shopping center concept would be an "economic reward" to the community.

Marijuana Charges Levelled Against Two Kennedy 'Teenagers'

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — Two Kennedy cousins, Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III, face juvenile court today on marijuana charges.

The boys, both 16, served with summonses at their homes in the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port Tuesday night, are to appear before Judge Henry L. Murphy at a 10 a.m. juvenile session of the 1st District Court of Barnstable County.

Juvenile sessions are held in private, and the records are not public unless a judge rules a case is serious enough to warrant opening the files.

Juvenile courts usually require the presence of one or both parents of youthful offenders. They are allowed to have lawyers with them.

Police declined to disclose any information about the case under a state law protecting accused persons under age 18.

The summonses served on Young Kennedy and Shriver were among five in which juveniles were named defendants in drug cases. The other juveniles were not named.

Two Arkansans Killed in Ill.

SALEM, Ill. (AP) — Benjamin J. Steigler, 69, of Cherokee Village, Ark., and his wife, Ida, 67, were killed Wednesday in a two-car collision on U.S. 37 north of here.

Doris Jackson, 40, of Lockport, Ill., driver of the other car, was not injured.

Radiothon Saturday for J. Whitten

Jimmy Whitten was once a newsboy for Hope Star. Now Jimmy is seriously ill of a blood disease in a Little Rock hospital and needs financial help.

The Star has started with the first contribution to the Radiothon to be held Saturday, Aug. 8, on KXAR. Jimmy's prolonged illness has created a great financial burden for the family so local friends headed by Earl Downs and Bill Stewart have organized the Radiothon.

About 25 persons have volunteered their services to work the phones and drive the cars that will pick up gifts to the fund. You are invited to listen and take part by way of KXAR starting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8th for the "Jimmy Whitten Radiothon".

Mrs. Romney Edges Huber in Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Lenore Romney has won a narrow victory in her first political race but faces a formidable foe in the fall.

Mrs. Romney, 61-year-old wife of George Romney, the former Michigan governor who now is secretary of housing and urban development, claimed victory late Wednesday in her fight for the Republican Senate nomination.

With 92 per cent of the precincts in from Tuesday's balloting and no more votes to be counted until today, she led conservative state Sen. Robert Huber of Troy 267,543 to 248,923 in the tightest of the major Michigan primary election races.

That matches Mrs. Romney in the November general election against Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who faced no primary opposition.

Computer breakdowns delayed vote counting in the heavily populated Detroit area and the outcome of the Romney-Huber race remained in doubt until the final 10 per cent started coming in. Then Huber conceded.

charged 23 adults with possession or sale of marijuana. Several also were charged with possession or sale of heroin. Their cases were continued.

There was no indication that the Kennedy-Shriver cases were connected with those against the adults. The summonses cited July 10 as the date of Kennedy-Shriver offense. The adult arrests cited dates running back to April 23. None of those charges was made on July 10.

The penalty for possession of marijuana under Massachusetts law can be 3½ years in prison. But the courts generally are lenient with first-offender juveniles, normally releasing them on probation in custody of their parents.

Young Kennedy is the third child among the 11 of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, and his wife Ethel. President John F. Kennedy was the boy's uncle.

Shriver's father stepped down last March as U.S. ambassador to France. His mother, Eunice, is the oldest daughter in the Kennedy family.

Birth Record and 'Shots' School Needs

James H. Jones, superintendent of schools, announced today that all parents and guardians who have children who will be 6 years of age or before Oct. 1, 1970, are reminded that a birth certificate and the following immunizations are necessary before your child will be entered in school for the school year 1970-71.

A health folder can be secured at the County Health Office.

The immunizations listed below should be recorded on this folder by the County Health Nurse or family physician.

1. Smallpox vaccination
2. Immunizations:
 - a. Polio (Oral or Salk)
 - b. Diphtheria
 - c. Tetanus
 - d. Red (rubeola) Measles
 - e. Pertussis (whooping cough; not to be given to children over six (6) years of age.

Anti-Crime Funds Won't Help Cities

—Says Report

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Urban Coalition study released today asserts federal anti-crime money grants have little chance of preventing or reducing crime.

Most funds are spent on police hardware at the expense of such programs as court reform, narcotics control and juvenile treatment, the study said.

The Urban Coalition, a private group, studied 12 states participating in the program set up by the Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

In 1969, $63 million was made available to the states for creating state planning agencies and funding action programs to improve operation of state and local criminal justice agencies. In 1970, $268 million was appropriated by Congress.

President Nixon has said the coming budget will be $450 million to $500 million.

The Urban Coalition examined grant programs in California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas.

"Despite one full year of operation under the act, many state programs have not gotten off the ground," the report said.

"The broad dissipation of action funds has meant that the money is not being focused on major impact programs, has little likelihood of preventing or reducing crime, and in some cases is not going to the urban population centers—where the crime is," the report said.

It added almost all of the 1969 action money went for police expenditures, usually communications equipment or other hardware. Only negligible attention was given to such areas as corrections, juvenile treatment, narcotics control or court reform, it said.

"This heavy emphasis on police, if continued, could cause a serious dislocation in the entire system of criminal justice," it said. "Little evidence has been produced to show that more sophisticated police equipment produces measurable results in preventing crime."

Ohio Residents Killed in Ark.

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Three Cleveland, Ohio, residents were killed Wednesday afternoon in a car-truck collision about seven miles north of here on U.S. 167.

State Police identified the victims as Ronald White, 34, his wife, Phyllis, 34, and their 7-month-old son Alan.

The White car collided with a state-owned truck driven by Glenn Herndon, 28, of Cove City, police said. Herndon was not seriously injured.

Says Faubus & McClerkin 'Fake Foes'

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jim Malone of Lonoke has charged that former Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Hayes McClerkin were "fake foes" who were members of the same "vicious political machine."

"The machine after four years of defeat at the polls has put two candidates in the race," Malone said.

Malone, opposing McClerkin, Faubus and five other candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, made the charges in a speech taped for showing Wednesday night on statewide television.

"Orval Faubus rides on the wings of conservatism while Hayes McClerkin offers himself as a standard bearer as social liberalism," Malone said.

He said they were on the "board of directors of the Orval Faubus political machine."

Other members of the board, Malone said, included William J. Smith, legal adviser to Faubus when Faubus was governor; Reeves Ritchie, president of Arkansas Power & Light Co.; W. R. "Witt" Stephens, chairman of the board and president of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.; Jess Odom, Little Rock businessman and Faubus financial supporter, and former state Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney.

"The machine was formed in the Faubus years," Malone said. "It's comprised of almost all vested interests in Arkansas."

He said that beneficiaries of the machine if it gains the governor's office would be insurance companies, railroads, utilities, chain banking and "the extrators of raw materials."

He predicted that insurance and utility rates would increase if McClerkin were elected. He said "new parking spaces" would have to be built to house caterpillars and tractors that he said McClerkin would purchase. This was an apparent reference to the fact that McClerkin is the son-in-law of J. A. Riggs, head of J. A. Riggs Tractor Co.

Malone predicted that 5,000 new employees would have to be added to the state payroll to "service the machine."

He said that if McClerkin is elected "you can sow the state down in wild onions and give it back to the Indians."

He challenged Faubus and McClerkin to refute his charges. He said they could do this by taking the same stand he has on four issues—repeal of the full crew law for trainmen, for higher royalties on extraction of the state's minerals and natural resources, for a self-insurance program for public schools and colleges and against a proposal by the Worthen Bank of Little Rock that opponents said was an attempt to circumvent the state laws against chain banking.

WR Must Pay Bond for Banner

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Hot Springs City Clerk J. H. Smith said that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller would be asked today to post a $100 surety bond if he intends to keep a banner stretched across Central Avenue here.

Three counselors, Jim Hart, Mrs. Jewel Moore, Jr., and Miss Debbie Moore, left Monday noon with 28 First Baptist church choir members to attend the Junior Music Camp at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, Aug. 3-6.

Mr. Hart will also be teaching a class in theory.

Two cantatas will be presented on Thursday morning, beginning at 9:45 a.m., at First Baptist Church of Arkadelphia; the public is invited.

Choir members attending are:

David Peterson, Emily Peterson, Debbie Petre, Donna Petre, Kathy Quillen, Donna Rowe, Jay Rowe, Jan Rowe, Doreen Smith, Molly Stretch, Pam Thrash, Ann Thrash, Barbie Watson and Sally Ann White.

Says Cereal Makers Brainwash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A professor of nutrition accused the cereal industry today of brainwashing the American public with a Communist-like propaganda campaign aimed directly at children.

"In a country where there is a considerable amount of malnutrition among the poor and where rates of infant mortality are disgracefully high this advertising may be indirectly contributing to ill health and mortality," declared Dr. Michael C. Latham, a physician and international professor of nutrition at Cornell University.

Latham commented in testimony prepared for a third session of the Senate consumer subcommittee's inquiry into the nutritional value of dry breakfast cereals.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, began its inquiry last week with testimony by citizen-lobbyist Robert Choate that most of the heavily advertised breakfast cereals are no more nutritional than hard liquor.

The industry, in a massive counterattack Tuesday, accused Choate of basing his findings on inadequate, confusing and incomplete information.

Five industry spokesmen told the subcommittee that Choate did not consider the impact of adding milk to cereal, which they said produced a high-quality protein. They also said cereals should not be eaten alone but with other things like juice and toast.

And they said overloading cereals with vitamins and nutrients could cause a dangerous imbalance in some human systems.

"My main thesis," Latham said, "is that the consumer has been led to believe that ordinary dry breakfast cereals have nutritive value superior to common foods such as bread, hominy grits, rice, spaghetti, baked beans, potatoes, pizza etc. This is not true."

Latham said the cereal makers probably would deny ever claiming their products are nutritionally superior to these foods.

"Perhaps they have not claimed this in so many words, but they have implied it in their advertising," he said.

"Ask any 8-year-old on your block," he went on, "or almost any suburban housewife, and you will be told that breakfast cereals are better nutritionally than bread or rice or baked beans."

"These consumers did not get this idea from their health education classes, or nutrition textbooks or from news articles. They got it from the skillful advertising of the breakfast cereal manufacturers," Latham declared.

Old man Z, who filled in the club duplicate game a couple of weeks back, appeared again with two friends of about the same age. None of them wanted to play but, when an extra pair was needed, Z's two friends agreed to fill in as long as they could play East and West.

Their names were A and B and they explained that they had appeared regularly in bridge columns until some 40 years back, when they had retired and East and West had taken their places.

The first hand found them defending just as they used to do in the old days. B opened the five of spades. South ruffed in his own hand and led a diamond to dummy's ace. Then he ruffed a second spade in his hand and a diamond in dummy. Following that, he discarded his last two diamonds on the ace and king of hearts and was faced with the problem of getting back to his own hand to lead a trump.

He thought a long time, because B had dropped the queen and jack of hearts under the ace and king. B had also led the five of spades and continued with the deuce. Could he have started with doubletons in both major suits? Not likely! Then he was probably false-carding in hearts.

South led another heart from dummy. A, sitting East, ruffed with the king and B still had to make his two top trumps.

Z, who had been watching, said, "B, old friend, you are still the tops. Of course, A would probably have used his king of trumps on the third heart anyway."

B said, "Not as sharp as I used to be. I could have led a trump and saved all problems."
